Larned Area Rich in History

The City of Larned is situated along the Santa Fe Trail which was a thoroughfare for early expeditions, traders, and livestock movement. From 1822 to 1880, the Santa Fe Trail was one of America's most important trade routes, carrying millions of dollars worth of goods annually in commercial traffic between Independence, Missouri and Santa Fe, New Mexico.

A military establishment was needed along the trail and in October 1959, Camp Alert was constructed. It was renamed Camp on the Pawnee in 1860 and later that same year became known as Fort Larned. The fort became the principal guardian of Santa Fe Trail commerce.

In 1869 Captain Henry Booth was appointed Postmaster of Fort Larned. He also operated the post store. When the Santa Fe Railroad began to extend its rails westward toward Dodge City, he joined with several Topeka investors and originated the Larned Town Company in 1871. After a town site was selected in January 1872, the first building was built and was used for a saloon, eating house, school and as a church on Sundays. The first Santa Fe train whistled into Larned on July 20, 1872. The City of Larned was officially incorporated in February 1877 by a proclamation of the Governor.

Today the Fort is a part of the National Park Service. It was designated a National Historic Site in 1964 and underwent major renovations in the years that followed. It is one of the few frontier forts where the original buildings have been preserved. Many hours of dedicated research and work have gone into restoring the Fort. The Santa Fe Trail was established as a national historic trail in May 1987 and trail ruts made by the countless ox and mule drawn wagons can still be seen near the Fort.

The Santa Fe Trail Center, located four miles east of Fort Larned, is a regional museum telling the story of the Trail from the prehistoric Indians through the settlement era up to 1919. The Trail Center opened its doors in 1974 and was accredited by the American Association of Museums three years later. The Center was also certified in 1991 by the National Park Service as a site on the Santa Fe National Historic Trail. On April 27, 2001, the Governor of Kansas declared the Santa Fe Trail Center as the official museum of the Santa Fe Trail. A non-profit organization, the Center is locally owned and privately funded.

Agriculture is the leading industry for Pawnee County. There are approximately 1,280 farms in the area with major crops of wheat, grain sorghum, corn, soybeans and alfalfa. Several feed yards located throughout Pawnee County are a major source of income, jobs, and markets for the grain products.

Larned Correctional Mental Health Facility located just north of the State Hospital employs approximately 200 people. In addition, the Larned Juvenile Correctional Facility employs 138 people. An indoor swimming pool is available at the Larned State Hospital for LSH employees, friends, and relatives and is open to the public on weekends during the fall, winter, and spring months.

Larned has sixteen churches, two long-term care facilities, one movie theater, over 80 retail establishments and 110 service establishments along with excellent dining and lodging facilities.
